Kelly Betrayed to the Petter by a James Kelly, who was arrested in Newark on nday night for murder committed in Hempgonday night for during committed in Hemp-steed, L. L. last Novembar, is a tramp 65 years eld and Richard Dorsey, who caused his ar-set, is another old wanderer, who will claim the reward offered by the Long Island authoriges for the arrest of the murderer. He recog-

Park, and followed him.

Kelly seemed relieved when arrested. He admitted striking John Murtha with a club in the Hempstead almshouse, of which both ware inmates, but he said in extenuation that forths lunged at him with a knife, and that the blow was struck in self-defence. He ran way after the blow, and says that he never hew surely that Murtha died. Dorsey was inmate of the almshouse at the time and knew of the death and the subsequent offer

sed Kelly on Broad street, near Military

Word was sent to Hempstead on Monday sight and a reply was received. It was a sequest to hold Kelly until the necessary sapers could be procured to remove him from New Jersey in case he refused to go without a equisition. Dorsey said yesterday that he had been on the look out for Kelly ever since he heard of the reward, and that when he finally met him it seemed like the relization of a gram. He was sitting upon head of the reward, and that when he many met him it seemed like the relization of a dream. He was sitting upon a seat in the park when Kelly passed, and he shouted, Hullo, Kelly.' Kelly did not seem to know him, and Dorsey recalled the almshouse tragedy. Kelly implored him to keep quiet shout it and said that he expected to meet his nephew on the 4:30 train from New York, and weld get some money which he would divide with Dorsey. Dorsey was uraged to remain seated until Kelly returned, but he tried to kep him in sight. He lost sight of him pear the corner of Commerce and Mulberry streets. Dorsey was puzzled for an instant and concluded to go to the Market street police station. He ran down Market atreet and told his story to Policeman Thomas Connell, who is detailed at the station. After getting a sating room, and a half hour later Kelly was seen pacing up and down Railroad avenue. Cennell called him by name, and he answered. Tour's wrong, my name is Williams." Then porsey appeared, and Kelly admitted his identity. Turning to Dorsey, he said: "You are doing this for blood money." Then he said to the policeman: "I sleen in the station bease last night and night before. I suspect I will lodge there again to-night."

THOMAS E. WANDS A FORGER. Insurance Agent Raises Money on Notes

RONDOUT, April 25.-It has just been discovered that Thomas E. Wands of West Shokan has committed a series of forgeries. Wands is life insurance agent, and has heretofore been regarded as a reputable citizen and business man. The credit of unearthing his rascality is due to Cashier Hume of the Kingston National Bank. About ten days ago Wands came to the bank with a note for $90 purporting to ke made by A. C. logart and endorsed by B. Matthews, a merchant of West Shokan. He asked to have the note discounted. The eashier, who was familiar with Matthews's writing, suspected that something was wrong. He put Wands off with an excuse and took the act train to West Shokan to show the note to Mathews, who pronounced it a forgery. Boart's name was also forged. An investigation by persons who hold some of Wands's seeks shows forgeries aggregation.

fion by persons who hold some of wands stores shows forgeries aggregating about $1,500.

What condition Wands's accounts with the haurance companies he represents is in has not heen ascertained. The father-in-law of Wands is Dewitt C. Davis, a Justice of the Peace and one of the heat-known citizens in the county. If Wands's forgeries do not aggregate too large a sum his relatives will probably pay the same.

WILLIAM WALLACE ACQUITTED. Admitted He Broke Out of a Saloon, bu

A Brooklyn policeman, when passing Patrick Casey's saloon at 119 Union street at 3 o'clock in the morning a few weeks ago, discovered a stranger behind the bar. Both the front and doors were securely fastened, and while the policeman was deliberating as to what he plate glass window and took to flight—He was captured. He said he was William Wallace, and he was indicted for burglary in the third decree. His trial took place yesterday in the Court of Bessions. There was no testimony showing when the saloon was closed up or whether the bartender remained behind or pot. Counsel for the prisoner admitted that he had broken out of the saloon by jumping through the wisdow, but contended that that act did not cover the alleged offence for which he had been indicted.

The Court charged the jury that if they believed it likely that the man was in the store when the bartender closed, there being no proof that he had broken in afterward, they must acquit him. The jury took this view and returned a verdict of acquittal. plate glass window and took to flight - He was

SUTHERLAND WILL CLOSE HIS DOORS

Famous Resort of Down-town Business Men Yields to the Changes of the Times Sutherland's, in Liberty street, is to close its oors within a week or so. This famous restaurant has been in existence a quarter of a century, and has been the resort of bankers, politicians, statesmen, literary men, and mer-chants. Sutherland, the white-haired old landlord. With an English accent, made the place famous for its game dinners and for the delicacies which could be found only at his place. It was there that one could get Yorkshire pudding in its perfection, hams and sausages of English make, the richest of oxtail soups and stews, and, above all, the best cooked mushrooms in New York. Sutherland was always a specialist in mushrooms.

For many years there hung on the walls great colored plates showing the different growths of mushrooms and toadstools. Manton Marble at one time had a very interesting experience with mushrooms. One of his en-thusiastic admirers sent him a box containing thusiastic admirers sent him a box containing what was apparently the finest mess of mush-rooms Mr. Marble had ever seen. He sent them down to Sutherland with the request that he cook them for dinner that night. Mr. Marble and his friends were to come down later in the evening. When they arrived Sutherland told Mr. Marble that it was well that he had sent the mushrooms there to be cooked. They turned out to be the runkest of toadstools, and would have killed Mr. Marble and his guests had they not fallen under the experienced eye of Sutherland.

Chester A. Arthur, when he was Collector of the Port, never thought of going up town from the Custom House without stopping in to see Sutherland and talking over the latest delicacles on hand. The heavy-weight bank Presidents and members of the Chamber of Commerce and the leading men in life insurance circles were also among Mr. Sutherland's patrons.

Since the Real Estate Exchange started busi-patrons.

Since the Real Estate Exchange started busipatrons.

Since the Real Estate Exchange started business on the opposite side of the street Sutherland's has lost a good deal of its distinctive character. The busy real estate brokers were content with a sandwich and a glass of whiskey, and this kind of custom was more than an establishment with the record of Sutherland's could endure. Recorder Smyth, Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, John D. Crimmins, ex-Mayor Grant, Collector Erhardt, Surveyor Lyon, Thomas C. Acton, and hundreds of others of the same class for many years have been fend of going to Sutherland's for a rare bite, and Sutherland always had something on hand to tickle their palates. The most subtle condiments to tempt the appetite were on his shelves. Sutherland's style of cooking and pickling salmon has not been equalled in this town. His game patities and ples were marvels. His liquors and wines were all of the best, and the place will always be remembered by the famous men who patronized it.

The City's Crack Regiment Loses its Home-CHICAGO, April 25.-The First Regiment Armory at Sixteenth street and Michigan avenue morning. Before the department could get to work a violent explosion occurred, blowing off the roof. Again and again the walls shook with terrific explosions. The fire had eaten its way to the magazine, and it was soon evi-dent that the structure was doomed. Finally the main magazine seemed to have been reached. The most terrific explosion of all occurred, and the north wall was blown out. Two men lost their lives in the flames. They were Henry Johnson, the colored porter, and were Henry Johnson, the colored porter, and Walter Williams, the colored janitor. Two electric light linemen were taken out of the third story and removed to St. Luke's Hospital, where it was said they were fatality burned. They are E. W. Lathan and Chris Wiggins. Prior to the explosion the firemen were told that several men were sleeping in the building, and ladders were run up to the third-story windows. E. W. Lathan was carried down. His face and shoulders were badly burned, and he was in a semi-conscious condition. He was able to say, however, that three others were in the building, and that two of them were dead. He was not able to give any names.

While Lathan was on his way to a place of safety, other firemen had climbed to the windows, and took out Chris Wiggins. He was unconscious, the flames having reached him and burned his body badly. The firemen rescued him at great peri to their own lives, but reached the ground with him in safety. He and Lathan were at once sent to St. Luke's Hospital.

In the centre of the basement was stored a large quantity of powder. Near this was a supply of 12,000 rifle cartridres, and in a rearroom were stored the uniforms, rifles, and other military equipments owned by the State. It is the accepted theory of the firemen that the flames started near the powder, which caused the explosion that partly wrecked the building. The loss on the building. The loss on the building. Which cost $150,000, will be almost total. The damage done to the Trocadero Company will reach $20,000.

$10,000 to a Steerage Passenger's Pockets. John J. D. Fouquet, a Frenchman, 80 years old, came over in the steerage of the Fulda which arrived yesterday. At Ellis Island it was discovered that, despite his ragged appearance, he had $10,000 in his pockets. He was allowed to land. The Fulda also brought over fifty-four German and seventeen Hungarian musicians, bound for the World's Fair.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE.

THE GREAT PROBLEM

This season has been to give DURABLE ARTISTIC PURNITURE for very little money.

The many buyers that throng our Warerooms think we have succeeded. Most of the designs are MARVELS OF BEAUTY, the choicest ever produced. The question now is, will enough of the best be ready in time! Well to make sure, it is best to select early, as time is important in the manufacture of
